

PUBLICLY TRADED OPPORTUNITY ZONE FUND

“Do Good While Doing Good”

Belpointe PREP, LLC (“OZ”) is the first and only publicly traded Qualified Opportunity Zone Fund to be listed on a National Securities Exchange.

OZ offers:

High quality and actively managed real estate investment assets in the United States, through the expertise of the Belpointe organization.

Tax incentives through investments in Opportunity Zones, as legislated by the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act of 2017 (“TCJA”).

A superior investment vehicle in the form of a SEC registered and NYSE American (“NYSE”) publicly traded partnership, which provides greater transparency, liquidity and additional tax advantages versus traditional real estate funds.

... And ultimately the potential for superior after-tax financial returns for investors.

OZ

Belpointe PREP, LLC (NYSE: OZ) is the first and only publicly traded “Opportunity Zone” fund, which is now disrupting the real estate investment industry with its unique combination of development expertise and its unparalleled investment platform. OZ is conducting an ongoing initial public offering of $750,000,000 in Class A units and is currently listed on the NYSE.

Who is OZ?

OZ is backed by Belpointe, which is a leading investment firm based in Greenwich, Connecticut that has a unique combination of resources, including real estate development and construction expertise. Belpointe’s real estate success is due to its team of former AvalonBay® development and construction experts, which have successfully built over $1 billion in multifamily and mixed-use developments. Belpointe’s financial management division currently manages over $3 billion in public securities. We believe fully integrated real estate investment, development, construction and management divisions separate Belpointe from its competition.

Tax Advantaged Investing

OZ offers all the traditional tax advantages of a real estate partnership but with substantial new tax benefits legislated in the TCJA. The TCJA allows for the deferral of taxes on previous capital gains that are reinvested into OZ, and for the potential elimination of capital gains and depreciation recapture taxes on the growth and depreciation benefits from holding OZ units, if unitholders hold their OZ units for 10 years or more. In addition, OZ unitholders can receive up to a 20% tax deduction benefit on any taxable income under Section 199A of the TCJA.

Why OZ?

We believe OZ’s unique platform, combined with its enhanced structure, tax advantages and highly experienced real estate team, make OZ a one-of-a-kind real estate investment platform that is unrivalled in the industry. Specifically, OZ offers best-in-class: management fees, carried interest, tax advantages, liquidity, transparency, diversification, real estate development and construction capabilities, and real estate investment management ... all of which may ultimately lead to superior after-tax returns for its unitholders.

OZ Structural Advantages

- Actively managed real estate by experienced real estate professionals.
- Greater diversification by geographic locations and asset types.
- Pass-through depreciation to investors.
- Ability to make quarterly distributions.*
- Annual distributions of at least 90% of operational income earned.*
- Low investment minimum for investors.

- Deferral of previous capital gains that are reinvested into OZ until December 31, 2026.
- Elimination of all capital gains taxes on the appreciation of OZ units, if OZ units held for at least 10 years.
- State income tax benefits for unitholders who domicile in states that conforms with the Federal Opportunity Zone regulations, may be entitled to receive the same tax benefits on their State income taxes.
- Up to 20% tax deduction on dividend income if income exceeds depreciation amount.
- No depreciation recapture tax, if OZ units held for at least 10 years.

- Provides unitholders with better transparency and SEC reporting.
- Publicly traded on the NYSE provides easy access investing through any brokerage account without any subscription paperwork.
- Publicly traded on the NYSE provides liquidity for its unitholders, so they can control their investment exit amounts and timing (providing opportunity tax benefits for 20+ years).
- Both non-accredited and accredited investor access.

+ Belpointe OZ Advantages

- Reduced annual Management Fee, only 0.75% (vs 2% traditionally).
- Minimal Carried Interest, only 5% (vs 20% traditionally).
- No Investor Servicing Fees.
- No Capital Calls.
- Acquisition of other Qualified Opportunity Funds and their stabilized assets reducing the construction risks and increasing operating cash flows.

Real Estate Group

OZ Real Estate Group — Overview

OZ is managed by Belpointe's Real Estate Team, which is headquartered in Greenwich, Connecticut. Belpointe is a fully integrated real estate development, construction and management firm specializing in multifamily investment strategies, specifically in ground-up construction.

Belpointe's real estate team consists of former AvalonBay® professionals who have extensive expertise as developers and construction managers, with over $1 billion dollars in real estate developments.

Having access to Belpointe's development and construction capabilities gives OZ an immense advantage over competitors, since Belpointe can actively manage the risks associated with new developments.

Since 2012, Belpointe's development team has sponsored three real estate investment vehicles that have raised an aggregate of approximately $236 million of equity capital and have made 13 investments consisting of 12 individual properties, with an aggregate development cost of approximately $400 million.

Belpointe's historical track record includes the development of "Baypointe", which is a Class A direct waterfront apartment community in downtown Stamford, Connecticut, which is located in an Opportunity Zone.

Description of the Baypointe Development:

Baypointe is a Stamford boutique luxury waterfront apartment community, which was built in 2017 by Belpointe's development and construction teams. The apartments at Baypointe offer its residents Long Island Sound water views, stainless steel appliances, quartz countertops, covered parking, floor-to-ceiling windows, and large loft-style floor plans. The resort-style amenities at Baypointe provides its residents with an expansive community lounge with a luxury demonstration kitchen, billiards room, fitness center and a waterfront swimming pool. Though located in an Opportunity Zone, Baypointe is still perfectly situated on the harbor with it a boardwalk that connects it to several great restaurants, marinas, a pier and a large public park with boating and tennis. Baypointe is also conveniently located to I-95 and the Stamford train station, which allows commuters access to NYC within 45 minutes.

Baypointe was built for an approximate total cost of $39.1M and sold in June 2019 for $50M.

OZ Real Estate Group — Investment Strategy

OZ's investment strategy is centered on ground-up multifamily developments and the acquisition of other Qualified Opportunity Funds with stabilized multifamily assets throughout the United States, using the following fundamental investment considerations.

Geographic Locations: Metropolitan markets and sub-markets within 75 miles of metropolitan areas that have shown significant employment and population growth. Specifically, OZ has studied the 2011 to 2015 census data on which Opportunity Zone tracts are designated and has updated this census data to reflect current economic conditions, trends and opportunities.

Stabilized Asset Acquisitions: Being the only publicly traded Opportunity Zone structure provides OZ the unique ability to acquire other Qualified Opportunity Funds and their stabilized assets, without causing their investors to lose any Opportunity Zone tax benefits.

Asset Classes: Multifamily is the beneficiary of the shift in attitude by society toward renting versus home ownership, which will be a major allocation of OZ's investment strategy.

Investment Platforms: OZ's innovative investment platforms provides OZ with better access to off-market opportunities and enhanced development oversight:

- I. Franchise Platform: Developers that are OZ affiliated development companies in specific regions throughout the United States that bring local expertise and knowledge.
- II. Programmatic Platform: Exclusive joint ventures with highly established and experienced regional development partners.

Strategic Locations: Infill developments typically have more barriers to entry for new supply and are close to employment and transportation, which leads to top-line growth.

Stringent Underwriting: Belpointe's tightly managed and controlled process to examine all elements of investments with respect to investing real estate assets, such as: asset location, asset classifications, demographics, employment data, risk factors, income producing capabilities, potential asset appreciation, tax considerations, liquidity and overall market fundamentals.

Only those assets that meet OZ's stringent investment criteria will be accepted into the OZ.

OZ's unique combination of risk mitigating strategies will provide its unitholders with the opportunity for long-term distributions and capital appreciation while lowering risk.

Development & Construction Oversight: We believe Belpointe's unique real estate team of former AvalonBay® developers and construction professionals brings unmatched real estate development experience that other real estate funds do not have internally, which is crucial when managing risk in construction and significant renovation projects.

Geographic Diversification: Investments will be diversified throughout the United States, which reduces risk of specific regional or metropolitan market volatility.

Asset Class (Multifamily): OZ will allocate approximately 85% of its capital to developing multi-family or mixed-use developments because they are less sensitive to economic fluctuations than other real estate categories.

Reduced Leverage: OZ's targeted asset portfolio leverage upon stabilization is below 60% loan-to-value, which greatly reduces the risk during economic downturns.

Lower Fees: Low annual Management Fees of only 0.75%, and no investor servicing fees, which greatly decreases risk for OZ's unitholders due to the decreased costs associated with their investment.

Stabilized Asset Acquisitions (Eliminating Construction Risk): Being the only publicly traded Opportunity Zone structure allows OZ to acquire other Qualified Opportunity Funds and their newly built cash flowing assets, without causing their investors to lose any their Opportunity Zone tax benefits. OZ's unitholders will also receive the Opportunity Zone tax benefits but without the risks associated with construction.

Asset Diversification: OZ will provide greater risk mitigation for its unitholders by accumulating a larger and more diverse real estate portfolio than most of its competitor Opportunity Zone fund vehicles, which are typically structured as private partnerships or limited liability companies. Such competitors due to their vehicle structures are limited in the quantity of investments they can make under the Opportunity Zone regulations, thus resulting in a lack of diversification which increases risk for its investors. Additionally, acquiring stabilized assets eliminates what we believe is one of the biggest risks in Opportunity Zone investing, the construction risk.

OZ being uniquely structured as a publicly traded partnership Qualified Opportunity Fund allows OZ to acquire other Qualified Opportunity Funds after their investments have been completed and stabilized.

Stabilized Asset Acquisitions: Being the only Opportunity Zone structure to be publicly traded provides OZ the unique ability to acquire other Qualified Opportunity Funds and their opportunity zone assets without causing an inclusion event, thus preserving the Opportunity Zone tax benefits for its investors and ultimately providing OZ's unitholders with newly built qualified opportunity zone assets that are stabilized and generating positive cash flow without any construction risk.

How is this even possible? Because Everyone WINS!!!

Win
#1

Sponsors of the acquired Opportunity Zone Funds. Typically a development project takes approximately 2 years to complete, thus requiring Qualified Opportunity Funds and their sponsors to hold their assets for an additional 8 years, to meet the minimum 10 year holding period required to receive the full Opportunity Zone tax benefits. OZ's unique ability to acquire other Qualified Opportunity Funds without an inclusion event for the acquired Qualified Opportunity Funds' investors, provides sponsors with the ability to exit their investment vehicles up to 8+ years earlier than previously planned, thus providing sponsors surety that they will receive their carried interest profits and that they will receive them up to 8+ years faster than expected.

#2

Win #2: Investors of the acquired Opportunity Zone Funds. Investors benefit from OZ acquiring their Qualified Opportunity Funds because they will be able to recognize gains from their investments without losing any of their Opportunity Zone tax benefits plus simultaneously taking advantage of the additional benefits that OZ provides for its unitholders, such as: greater diversification, liquidity, lower fees, unitholders' investment exit control, and up to 20% tax deduction benefit on income that exceeds depreciation (IRC 199A).

#3

Win #3: OZ Unitholders. The OZ unitholders shall benefit from acquiring other Qualified Opportunity Funds as it will increase OZ's cash flow from operations, while decreasing risk by improving investment diversification and eliminating construction/development risks.

Opportunity Zone Investing

OZ Opportunity Zone Investing — Overview

What are Opportunity Zones?

Opportunity Zones were created through the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act of 2017. Opportunity Zones are low-income census tracts nominated by U.S. State Governors and certified by the U.S. Department of the Treasury, to encourage investors to reinvest their capital gains into these areas, in exchange for certain Federal (and possibly State) capital gains tax advantages. The United States has over 8,700 designated Opportunity Zone census tracts throughout the country, in every state and every U.S. territory.

Specially designated investment vehicles, known as Qualified Opportunity Funds, must hold at least 90 percent of their assets in Opportunity Zone census tracts to realize the stipulated capital gains tax benefits.

U.S. taxpayers hold trillions of dollars in unrealized capital gains, which can serve as an untapped resource for economic development in Opportunity Zones. Qualified Opportunity Funds provide investors the chance to put that money to work in rebuilding the nation's left-behind communities. The OZ structure enables a broad array of investors to pool their resources into Opportunity Zones, increasing the scale of investments going to underserved communities.

How to take advantage of Opportunity Zones?

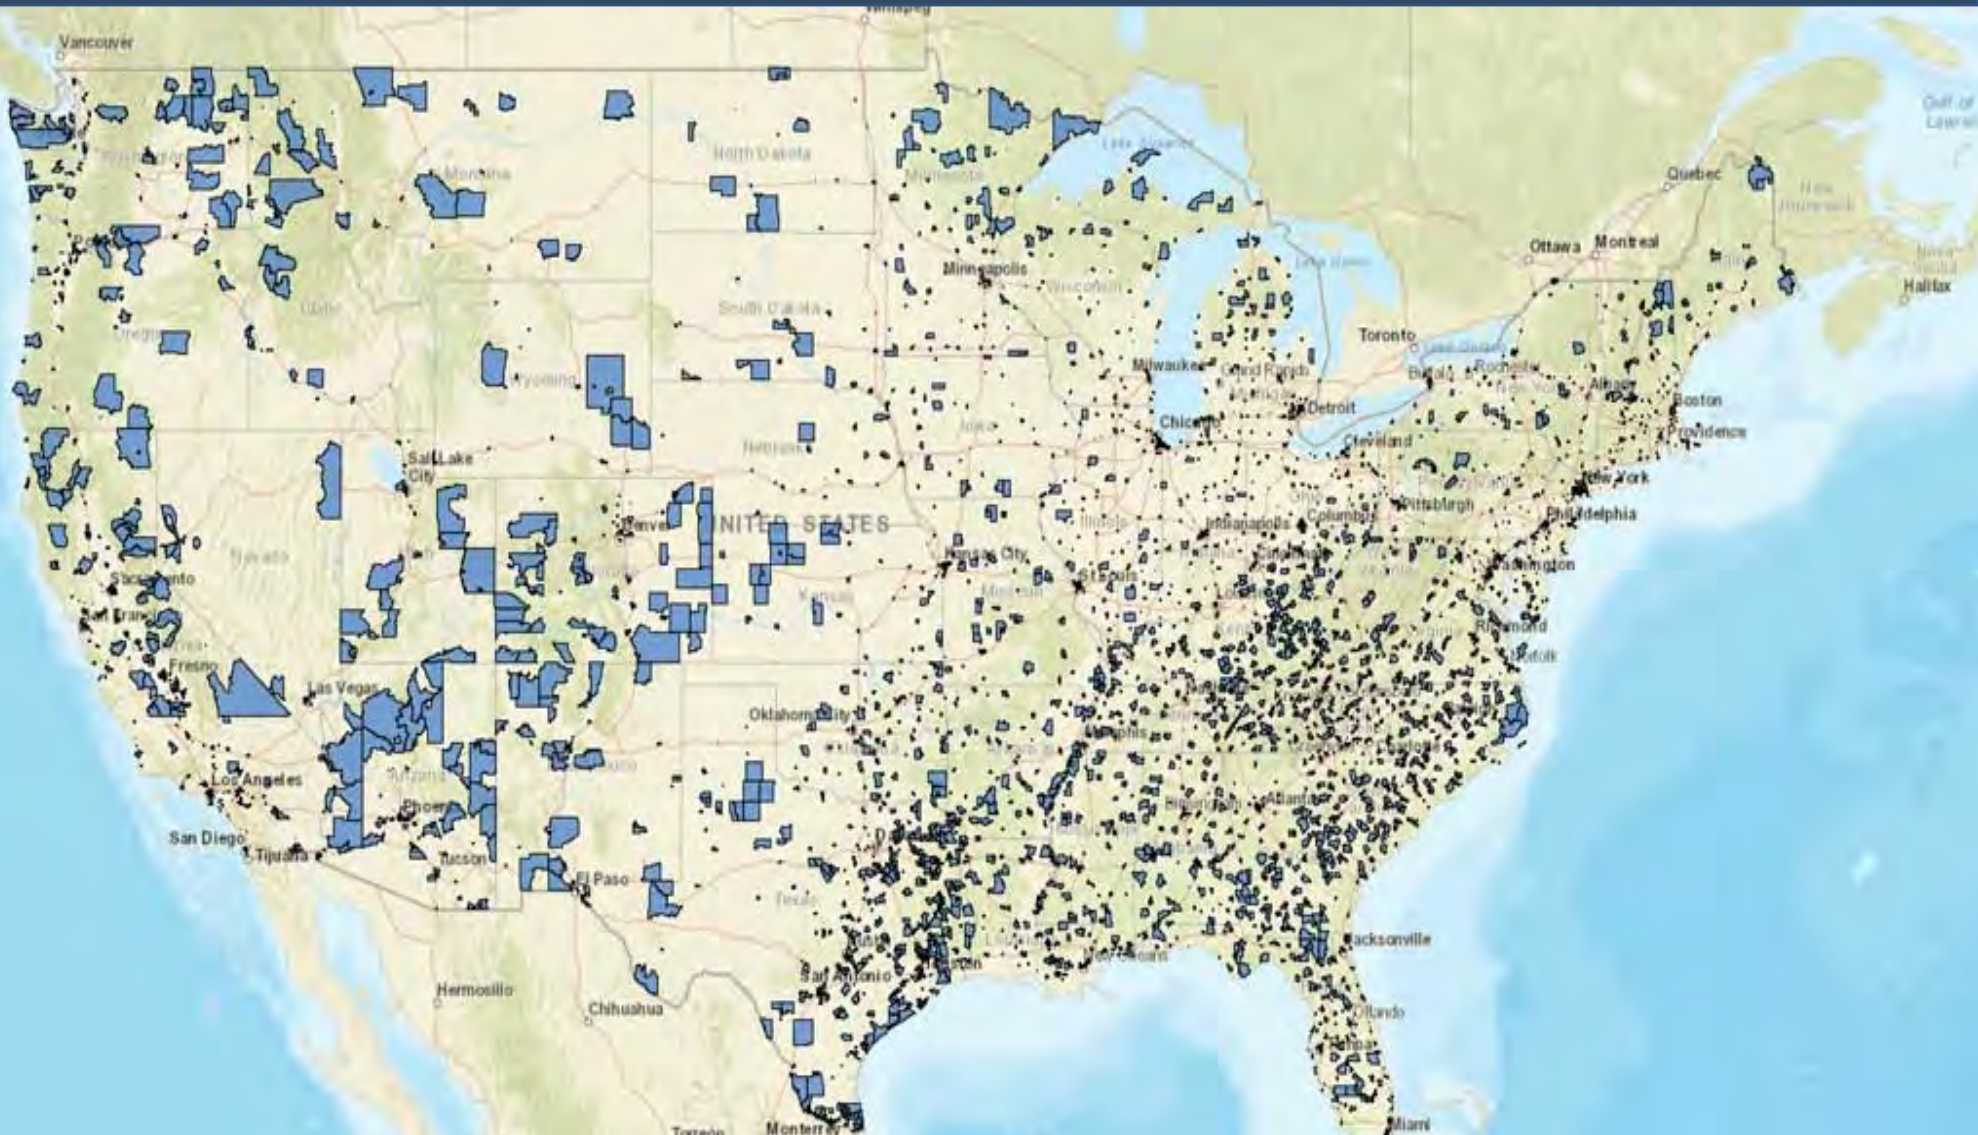

To take advantage of the tax benefits of investing in Opportunity Zones, investors must reinvest their capital gains from a prior investment into a Qualified Opportunity Fund, within 180 days of the recognized sale of that prior investment.

Capital gains in a wide array of asset classes, including but not limited to: stocks, bonds, commodities, cryptocurrencies, artwork, automobiles, jewelry and real estate, are all eligible to received tax benefits through reinvestment of capital gains into Opportunity Zones.

Only capital gains are eligible to receive the Opportunity Zone benefits, but the eligible capital gains can be either short-term or long-term gains.

The principal/basis from a prior investment itself can also be invested into the OZ, but the non-capital gains investment would not receive the tax benefits associated with Opportunity Zones.

OZ Opportunity Zone Investing — Opportunity Zone Map

OZ Opportunity Zone Investing — Tax Advantages

Under Section 1400Z of the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act of 2017, investors who elect to reinvest their capital gains into Opportunity Zones will receive multiple capital gains tax benefits.

Tax Benefits:

1 Deferral of Capital Gains Taxes: Capital gains (short-term or long-term) from the sale of any asset that are reinvested into units of OZ within 180 days following the disposition of that asset, shall be excluded from the unitholder's gross income until the earlier of: December 31, 2026, or the date the unitholder sells his/her OZ units.

2 Elimination of Capital Gains: OZ unitholders are exempt from federal taxation on capital gains derived from the appreciation of their investment in OZ units, if those units are held for at least 10 years.

3 Possible State Income Tax Benefits under Opportunity Zone Program: Depending on which State the unitholder is domiciled and if that State conforms with Federal Opportunity Zone regulations, that investor may be entitled to receive the same Federal Opportunity Zone capital gains tax benefits (deferral and elimination of capital gains taxes) on a State income tax level. [See map on the next page: State Income Tax Advantages]

4 No Depreciation Recapture Tax Liability: OZ unitholders who make a valid Opportunity Zone investment into OZ and hold their OZ units for at least 10 years will receive a stepped-up tax basis that will eliminate their depreciation recapture tax liabilities.

State conformity with Federal guidelines on Opportunity Zones at the Individual level:

The following States, shown in blue, have chosen to follow Federal guidelines on deferral of tax through investments in Opportunity Zones.

A State's conformity with the Federal Opportunity Zone provisions is an important factor for unitholders to consider. Unitholders in States that coupled with the Federal Opportunity Zone provisions may receive State tax incentives similar to those available at the Federal level.

Conversely, investors residing in not coupled States, shown in red, may not be able to defer State taxation on the initial gains invested in Opportunity Zones. However, unitholders in these not coupled States may also be required to recognize gain for State tax purposes on their eventual sale of their OZ investment.

Structural Advantages

OZ was formed as a public real estate partnership (“PREP”), which is registered with the United States Securities and Exchange Commission (“SEC”).

Public Company Registration Advantages:

- Registering as a public company provides unitholders with SEC reporting requirements and transparency.
 - By comparison, most private real estate investment vehicles (i.e., private REITs, LLCs and partnerships) provide only limited reporting and transparency for their investors.
- Public company registration allows for non-accredited investors to become unitholders of OZ by simply purchasing units directly from OZ or through a brokerage account.
 - By comparison, private real estate investment vehicles are limited in the number of non-accredited investors that can participate, if they are allowed to participate at all.
- Public registration allows OZ to be listed on a national securities exchange. OZ is currently listed on the NYSE under the symbol “OZ”.
 - By comparison, private real estate investment vehicles do not have the ability to have their units traded unless they become a publicly registered entity, thus limiting the exit liquidity for their investors.

OZ Drastically Reduced Fee Structures

In order to disrupt the real estate industry, OZ is offering a drastically reduced management and incentive fee structure, as compared to traditional real estate funds.

Further, OZ does not charge many of the other ad-hoc fees that are prevalent in the industry.

▶ Reduced Management Fee: OZ is charging just an annual 0.75% annual management fee, versus its competitors who are charging between 1.5% and 2%+.

▶ Minimal Carried Interest: OZ is only charging a 5% carried interest, versus its competitors who are charging anywhere between 15% and 25%.

▶ No Investor Servicing or Disposition Fees: Many other Opportunity Zone structures charge their investors Investor Servicing fees, but OZ does not.

OZ's Management and Carried Interest fees are substantially under-market, which is extremely advantageous to all type of investors, from non-accredited to institutional investors.

OZ's lower fees provide unitholders with the opportunity to obtain superior economics that are more inline with what a direct real estate investor would receive.

OZ's units were designed to provide its unitholders with the ultimate control and liquidity.

NYSE Liquidity:

OZ has provided its unitholders with liquidity by being listed on the NYSE, which is not available to investors in private real estate investment vehicles.

Ultimate Control:

By being listed on the NYSE, OZ allows its unitholders to have control of their exits (both the timing and amount of exits). For instance, unitholders could choose to partially or fully exit their investments, or to hold their investments for as many years as they choose.

By comparison, since private real estate investment vehicles do not generally list their equity on a national securities exchange, the typical hold period for a multi-asset private Opportunity Zone fund can be anywhere from 12 to 13 years, and investors in those funds will have no control over whether the fund chooses to hold their investments for longer than 13 years.

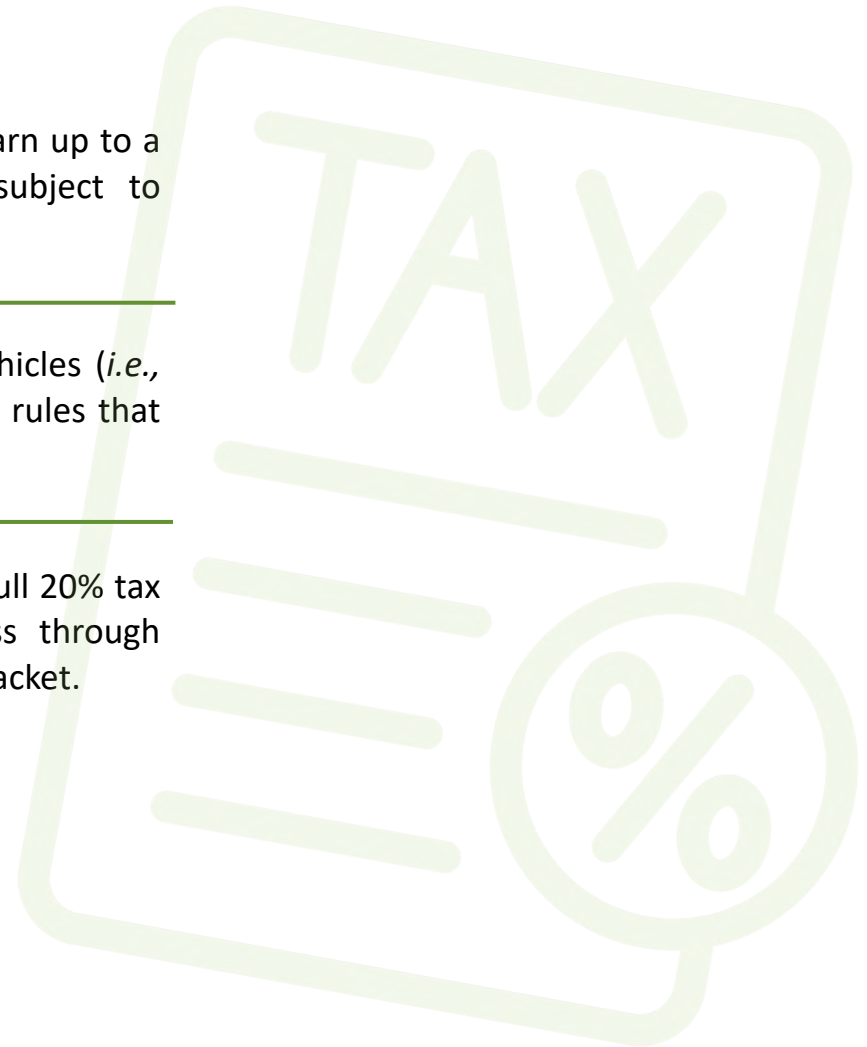

The OZ structure provides for an additional tax advantage for its unitholders: 20% Tax Deduction on taxable operating income.

20% Tax Deduction on all Taxable Income:

Under Section 199A of the TCJA, pass-through investors can earn up to a 20% tax deduction on their qualified business income (subject to limitations), by holding OZ units.

By comparison, investors in private real estate investment vehicles (i.e., partnerships, LLCs and DSTs) are subject to multiple limitation rules that restrict their eligibility to receive the 20% tax deduction.

Therefore, all OZ unitholders are eligible to receive up to the full 20% tax deduction benefit on all net operating income above pass through depreciation amount, no matter the unitholders' income tax bracket.

OZ Versus a 1031 Exchange

An investment into OZ offers several advantages over a 1031 Like-Kind Exchange:

- 1 A 1031 Exchange only applies to capital gains taxes from the sale of real property. However, a reinvestment of capital gains into OZ can be from the sale of any asset type (not just real estate), including assets such as: stocks, bonds, commodities, cryptocurrencies, artwork, automobiles, jewelry, etc.
- 2 A 1031 Exchange does not eliminate capital gains taxes on the appreciation of the new real estate investment. By contrast, OZ unitholders are exempt from federal taxation on capital gains derived from the appreciation of their investment in OZ units, if their OZ units are held for at least 10 years.
- 3 Additionally, a 1031 Exchange requires rolling over the entire original investment (basis + gains) into one or more separate real estate transaction swaps. By contrast, OZ requires only reinvestment of the capital gains, the actual basis can be withdrawn tax free.
- 4 Lastly, the reinvestment of capital gains into OZ occurs through a simple single transaction and gives the investor access to a diversified actively-managed portfolio of real estate assets throughout the United States.
